Ballistic Announces Hard Core™ Rugged Case for iPhone 4

June 25th, 2010 at 3:16 PM - Product News by Bryan Chaffin

Ballistic announced Friday a new case for iPhone 4 called Ballistic HC, with the HC standing for "hard core." The case is designed for people using their new iPhone in situations requiring rugged protection. They feature four layers of what the company characterized as durable protection that include shock absorption, with an outer gel skin layer that is interchangeable.

The case also has a front-facing inward holster, a built-in screen protector, and connector seals that Ballistic said can ensure that dirt and other corrosive materials do not enter through the ports.

The Ballistic HC will be offered through AT&T retail locations and Ballistic's own Web site, and will ship later this summer. It will be priced at US$49.99.

still waiting for an iPhone 3GS enclosure for the iPhone 4G so I can use my old iPhone 3GS cases Sounds like exactly what I'll be getting. Too bad their web page doesn't work. Tried it with Safari and Opera and the page loads but the pictures don't.

Bryan Chaffin said on June 25th, 2010 at 3:37 PM:

Yeah, I had trouble pulling up the pics on the dedicated product page (I got the layers chart from a press release), but the rest of the page worked for me.

Funny... Everything on the site works fine for me. They must have fixed it already.

geoduck said on June 25th, 2010 at 4:24 PM:

Not for Safari/Opera on the Mac
But IE8 under XP works fine.
Annoying.

MOSiX Man said on June 25th, 2010 at 4:34 PM:

Well, considering that I am using Safari 5 on my Mac, and it works fine for me, I don t think the problem is specific to the browser.

Bryan Chaffin said on June 25th, 2010 at 5:26 PM:

It s all working for me now, as well. And to clarity, it was only the image on the HC s page that didn t work for me before. I was able to pull up the page and the rest of the site before posting the story.

Now, however, the image pulls up just fine, too.

That s just in case there was any confusion. 😊

All OK now on Mac Safari.
I guess this means that they do read the reviews and comments.
